

Zac's Heart Radiance

"From across all the universal realms, Healing the hurty hearts all around the globe".

Zac

A powerful, universal, bliss filled water essence to melt away all barriers of our hearts.

For those who may not know who Zac is? He is part of the rich heritage of the Ascended Master Djwal Khul. A very lovable, humorous, but incredibly wise Being from the 26th Dimension who calls himself our "guide for the future".

High vibrational Zac is channelled by Janet Treloar for almost 20 years, and this water transmission is not only imbued with Zac's magic but that of a whole array of other benevolent Love-Light realms including the angelic, star, water, mystical and many, many others. This water treasure is truly unique and timely, as we traverse through this massive shift together, jumping from the old into the new.

Zac recognised that for Humanity's 'Hurty Hearts' to fully transcend, it requires the true dissolving of any walls, shields, patterns, control or limitation. Can you imagine the freedom and lightness, when those parts of you lift away? Zac acted as a conductor on behalf of the benevolent realms who all wanted to be part of this sacred transmission and together, they brought through their Love- Light from around the whole of the Universe into these waters as a sacred symphony. These droplets are assisting our hearts to reach full capacity of openness and coherence and begin to experience the full luminosity that is available at this time.

We met on the 19th of December, a day when an interstellar object named 3I Atlas moved closest to the orbit of our planet Earth. Some note that this object was not only emitting Christed energies from the Galactic Core yet was also receiving the high frequency Earth energies from the crystalline core of the Earth. No wonder the day felt pristine on all levels. This is a fair description too of the same transmission that Zac and the universal realms brought through, with such high vibration codes and frequencies being received by these waters.

I don't know about you, but I AM ready – as everything changes, we expand from our hearts!

For those who know Zac, this water treasure truly flows in divine alignment with the electrical charge, plasma power, sweet harmony for the Heart and cellular regeneration themes that have been shared in recent months. (I can hear Zac say 'Good, eh?').

This day was epic in all proportions as it was supercharged in so many ways. From the plasma in the Sun's rays to the presence of mother nature, as the biggest brown hare ran in front of us, and a chestnut horse walked back and forth behind us, and the power of the water flow of the Swallowhead spring, so strong.

From Pip's water observing perspective, this freshwater spring flows through the sacred lands of Avebury from the River Kennet. I was initially surprised to see the waters were cloudy. There had been so much rainfall in the weeks leading to this day, I initially believed that the opaque nature came from the land and in a way it did, as Avebury and most of Wiltshire is predominantly built on chalk. I found out that this in turn supports more diversity of species and a unique platform for an abundance of wildlife woven into one living system, including the cosmos for this transmission. Even though the height of this spring was too high for the wellies, there was such an innocent, gentleness here, as I heard the softest singing from these flowing waters.

Each of the elements took turns to be present, as if welcoming and uniting with the cosmic energy that was coming in. From the air through the nearby pine trees, the fire and plasma rays from the solar flares of the Sun, the Earth love representatives could be felt and seen by the nature spirits and elementals (especially the undine water nymphs). I even sensed a joyful leprechaun as a fleeting presence. Not surprising as there were so many rainbow rays witnessed around the water, acting as the unifying and balancing bridges of all that were present for this wonderous water transmission.

It was pure joy to be with Janet as I sensed her inner child coming out to play, and I was grateful to the blessed willow tree that acted as a tree seat for Janet to sit on for this sacred water transmission. It really did feel like we were being divinely held on all levels on this day. It has been a real honour to be deeply woven with both Janet and Zac, for this water support to be here to support Humanity's 'evaluation'.

Later, for the finishing scented notes, I shared a beautiful energetic dance with Zac to psychically tune into the scents that would represent him. These are exotic, deep scented notes which are in homage to where Zac/Djwal Khul resided when he was on the Earth Plane. I promise I did play with many 'sweet notes' along the way. This has truly been a cherished, unique journey of water creation to witness and be part of.

- supporting gently the replenishment of the heart, allowing space to feel more at peace. Like a soothing balm for the soul.
- opening to the Magic that exists beyond our knowing, with Zac and the many realms of this multiverse offering loving frequencies to support us during this immense time shift and change.
- softly reconnecting with compassion rather than separation, helping any parts of the heart that may have been shielded, allowing them to begin to feel safe again.
- enabling the heart to open with kindness, grace, bliss, contentment and balance, always at a pace that feels right for you.
- gently releasing outworn patterns and programs, creating space to let go of anything that may no longer serve you. Liberating our own automatic responses, inspiring a true sense of freedom along the path of self-mastery.
- receiving the energetic, electric, plasma consciousness to nurture and support the whole-body system.
- stepping more fully into the heart's potential and coherence, drawing you closer to your heart's deepest desires, capabilities and miracles.
- becoming part of a wider unfolding, where illuminated souls step into their fullness and multidimensional selves, supporting themselves, their communities and the energetic grid of our beautiful Earth.

Suggestions on 'How to use'.

This essence of the deepest love of the universe is lovingly recommended for daily use, especially in the beginning, allowing a gentle new pattern to form as the process begins to unfold within the energy system. With regular use, the energetic field may gradually become more familiar with and receptive to these frequencies.

Zac shares that the water merges beautifully with the etheric energy system. The delivery of the water consciousness is soft and subtle, allowing the shifts to be sensed as they move from the etheric layers toward the physical body.

For some, as water is closely connected with our emotional landscape, there may be moments of natural release. This could arise as tears or feelings such as frustration or impatience gently surfacing to be acknowledged and witnessed. In allowing these feelings to move through, space may open for more harmonious emotions to emerge, such as bliss, joy, grace and ease. Each person's experience with the droplets will be unique and personal. For others, these droplets may simply evoke a sense of love, connection and inner sustainability, supporting the heart in attuning to the highest frequency available within everyone's own energetic bandwidth at that time.

Zac also suggests that these droplets may be supportive within shared spaces or group environments. When there are different personalities or perspectives present, the water's gentle vibration may help soften the atmosphere and encourage a sense of heart alignment amongst those gathered.

You are invited to notice how these droplets connect with you. Trust that your heart naturally magnetises the energy that is most supportive for you in the moment. Some people find that journaling, gentle body movement, or creative expression such as drawing can help support and integrate the experience.

You may wish to keep the essence bottle close by, allowing it to be easily available when you feel called to use it. This water essence is offered as a gentle companion, supporting a subtle vibrational uplift into a more harmonious energetic space.

There will be a recording of Zac speaking more about how to use these water droplets. The link to that is HERE (this will be available from the 24th April 2026).
